These macros are extremely useful for whenever you copy a picture or other file from one folder to another, but from a certain folder to a new folder. This way, you will not need to manually enter all the information needed to save the file (file name, location, file size, date, and so on). The macros will automatically take the picture or other file and store it in the folder you want. SETPIC... This macro will allow you to easily edit all the information from a picture and paste it in the appropriate location. This macro will also be able to open all the pictures stored in the hard drive in their native programs. Kerio Unify This is one of the best ways to transfer files quickly between computers and devices. It's a large part of the FusionCat/Sync solution, and is one of the most important. Kerio Remote Desktop Connection This is an older version of the app which is also highly recommended. I use it on my laptop, and it's great! Kerio Viewer This is another old app which you can use if you're looking to play your DVDs and Blu-ray's in any Windows environment. Kerio eHome This is the latest version of the app. It's a convenient way to access and transfer files and data between computers and mobile devices. The Best These are the apps I use every day and really, really recommend. They all have many variations of the app, so make sure to look for the one that works best with your specific needs. Box.net Sync This is the most reliable app I've ever used. You can to create the new folder. A window will open up, where you need to select the folder. Beware of fyle's fragility! It's been a long time since we released a performance review, but we decided to give you this one. This time we'll be reviewing the performance of fyle. Keep in mind that this is not a complete stability test, but a look at how the application can, for example, affect a portable flash drive. Step 1 - Installation Firefox was installed, and all add-on updates were done. The application was installed as well. Step 2 - Uninstall The application was uninstalled. Everything that should be deleted was deleted. Step 3 - Startup All add-on updates were done. A restart was performed and the application was started. Step 4 - Run fyle File Transfer was selected, since a simple process was not to be performed. The application was run. Here is where it starts to behave like the step-up-and-down effect. Step 5 - test on a portable flash drive A portable flash drive was used. The contents of the application were removed, along with every file. Possible consequences All files are randomly arranged in the new folders. The window used to create the new folder doesn't close. Conclusion The application was installed, and all add-on updates were done. The application was uninstalled. Everything that should be deleted was deleted.
