Krishnamurty quakes again By David Rising Published Wednesday, February 6, 2015 Raghu Krishnamurty with his award-winning film 'Carry on Chennai' Photograph: Biju George Raghu Krishnamurty's latest docusoap, Carry On Chennai, has won the best international non-fiction short at this year's Global Cinema Documentary Awards. The Chennai-based filmmaker is the second Indian to win the award in its 11-year history. In a crowd of peers from around the world, Krishnamurty was surprised to win the award. "When the name of the film was mentioned, I put my hand up and said, 'I might win this!' and was surprised that I was accepted as a top contender in a field of 500 entries from 60 countries," says the 46-year-old filmmaker. The film follows chef Krishnamurty and his team of cooks as they prepare a variety of dishes for the gods. It was shot over the course of a year in Chennai and is being released in cinemas around the world. "It's a journey of the soul and of understanding the rituals in the Hindu way of life," says Krishnamurty. He considers himself "a gardener – a visual gardener". "I love aesthetics. I love ideas and I love people and I love places and local stories." Carry On Chennai was created over three months and was selected as the winner among 75 films at a ceremony in London last month. The documentary was featured at multiple international film festivals. Krishnamurty has always been drawn to world cinema, and now that he has set up his own production company, he says, "I want to do more of that. I want to move into feature
